

Re: SSL on Port other than 443

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.network_web/2005-12/msg00750.html

- From: "Peter Gniewek" <petergmail@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 17 Dec 2005 18:58:18 -0500
-

First you need to obtain the certificate from the certificate authority and install it on the computer, then you can use the SSL.

Peter Gniewek
www.petersite.00freehost.com

Microsoft Community Newsgroups

"JOHNFDS" <JOHNFDS@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:8B6A3931-380F-41E5-AF25-13CDFC41CA0C@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>I have a customer who wishes to have an XP Pro computer run IIS for HTTPS > access on port 8344. In IIS Management the Add button to create an SSL > connection on a port other than 443 is grayed out.
> Anyone know why? Is it a limitation of XP Pro?
> John.

-
- Prev by Date: Re: Can't connect to the internet
 - Next by Date: Re: Trouble setting up a secure wireless network
 - Previous by thread: Re: Trouble setting up a secure wireless network
 - Next by thread: Re: Linking laptop to home PC
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread