Hi, Everyone:

My wife works for a small city (50,000 people) on the east coast. They have three people employed in their MIS/IT department: One manager, two techs.

She finally received permission from her boss to remote access her files, but is meeting with a recalcitrant MIS/IT manager. The manager had to be "directed" to cooperate.

My wife's workstation indicates Windows 2000, so I assume they're using Windows Server software.

My query is, is this the right Newsgroup for me to post questions concerning this subject?

Thank you in advance for your help,

Ernie
