

Re: Dual boot

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.network_web/2007-03/msg00268.html

- From: "AJR" <ajrjdr@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 9 Mar 2007 15:17:17 -0500
-

Recommended procedure regarding dual boot is to install the "older" OS first (XP) and the "newer OS last (Win 2002). A third party boot manager, such as bootmagic, would be a solution – or modification of the boot.ini file,

"Shivaram" <Shivaram@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:0E69A1B9-358E-4DF5-854F-20ECFA6028B3@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

I have installed XP proff sp2 in c:\ on one of my computers and later installed win 2003 enterprise edition in the e:\ drive for some reasons while i was playing around in the c drive the computer became very slow so i repaired it but no change so decided to clean install XP and i did which resolved my problem, now i do not have the boot options in the select OS screen, where we are asked to select an OS, previously i was having two options XP and 2003 now when i start my computer it directly boots up Xp, how to get the second OS in the select OS Screen.

Shivaram
Thanks in advance