

Re: anoying icon on welcom screen

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.newusers/2004-10/1185.html>

---

From: David Candy (david\_at\_mvps.org)

Date: 10/13/04

Date: Wed, 13 Oct 2004 15:38:23 +1000

Only if they deserve help. He doesn't. There is no problem. Windows wasn't designed to be used at the welcome screen. It is abusive to expect enablement of his mental illness.

--

-----
<http://www.uscricket.com>

"jeffrey" <jeffrey@nospam.com> wrote in message news:OK$wFWOsEHA.1016@TK2MSFTNGP10.phx.gbl...

> David,

>

> Each person has a different definition of problem. For some people, they do > not know their way around the OS very well. There is an old saying, only > stupid question is a question not asked. This forum is to help people > either to solve problems or learn how to use their computers so they can > learn to solve their own problems. For you the EN is not a problem, but for > the OP, it is a problem to them. I have seen people come in here asking > how to change settings on their computer, that is not a problem, but its > something they need help with. Isn't that what these forums are for? to > help people?

>

> Jeff

>

> "David Candy" <david@mvps.org> wrote in message
> news:eBOTG%23NsEHA.2660@TK2MSFTNGP12.phx.gbl...
> Well the flip now has something to try to remove the EN.

>

> --

>

> -----
> <http://www.uscricket.com>

> "bdog" <bd@op.net> wrote in message > news:Xns9580D8941E818bdopnet@216.196.97.142...

>> "David Candy" <david@mvps.org> wrote in >> news:#7n#TGNsEHA.2560@tk2msftngp13.phx.gbl:

>>

>>> Criminals like you and Thief aren't.

>>>> Common courtesy goes a long way.

>>> This is something scum like you and Thief should ponder.

>>>

>>> Answer this.

>>>

>>> On my car there are letters stamped on the manifold. How do I remove >>> them.

>>

>> Get the engine very hot and suck them off with your lips.

>