

Opening Internet Explorer Windows

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.newusers/2005-08/msg00300.html>

- From: John Thomas Smith <jtsmith@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 04 Aug 2005 11:26:54 -0700
-

I use IE 6 with all the latest updates on XP Pro with all the latest updates (at work, policy is automatic updates)

Some time in the last 2-3 weeks IE stopped opening a new page in an "almost" full sized window (such as when I right click on a link and specify to open in a new window) and now opens all new pages/windows in about a 1/4 screen window so I have to click to maximize to be able to read

I have looked at every option I can find from the tool bar at the top, and do not see anything I can set for this behavior

Is there something I have missed... is there a setting I may change to make Internet Explorer open new pages "full" size?

John Thomas Smith
<http://www.direct2usales.com>
<http://www.pacifier.com/~jtsmith>

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: Opening Internet Explorer Windows
 - ◇ From: Alan Edwards
- Prev by Date: Re: Can't see files on a full CD-Rw
- Next by Date: Re: The Euro-letter on Windows XP
- Previous by thread: creating .wav files
- Next by thread: Re: Opening Internet Explorer Windows
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread