A week ago, my computer started to drag. No new programs, plenty of space. Internet runs at same speed, but loading windows and programs takes longer. So long that they often dont respond. This may be a key factor: recently, i guess since when the problem started really, when i log on i get a tiny blue taskbar above Start saying C:/windows/ODBC.hta then get a norton antivirus warning of trying to get special folder. i always stop the script. anyone get this or know what the deal is? i dont want to reinstall XP. help!
