

Can't reinstall WinXP from bootable CD.

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.perform\_maintain/2004-10/1562.html

---

From: Jose Z (tajoman_at_yahoo.com)

Date: 10/11/04

Date: Mon, 11 Oct 2004 08:33:47 -0700

Hi,

Last night I wiped my partition of Win98SE and installed XP. Everything was going fine until I installed SP2. Upon rebooting the system hangs. It tried ALL the options (safe modes, etc.) and NONE worked. On the safe modes I saw that it got stuck on loading "agp400.sys".

- a) I booted from the cd and disable agp400.sys
- b) I was now able to boot up but the display was at 640x480 (and unchangeable)
- c) I re-enabled agp400.sys and everything hung up again.. (doesn't boot)
- d) I formatted (quick) and tried to reinstall.
- e) The install process now hangs and the onscreen graphics get corrupted.

Any help would be much appreciated!

Jose.