

user account files and login lost

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.perform_maintain/2005-01/0404.html

From: jack (jack_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 01/06/05

Date: Wed, 5 Jan 2005 21:41:01 -0800

i have winows xp pro. and for about 3 or 4 months have had one loginname and user account for windows with a password. well i got bored and decided to make another user account with administrator privelages so i could have less clutter on my desktop. i created it and then restarted the computer and ever since it only gives me the option to login to my new username and wont give the option at startup to let me login to my old username. the only way i can get to my old username is in safemode then it gives me both login options and i can access my files. How come i cant login to my orginal username and how can i fix it? thanks