

Re: Missing parts of Windows xp

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.perform_maintain/2005-04/msg01155.htm

- From: "River_Rat" <nospam@nospam>
 - Date: Tue, 26 Apr 2005 23:52:05 -0500
-

There really isn't much you can do without the CD.

The only option would be to purchase one unless you qualify for:
How to replace lost, broken, or missing Microsoft software or hardware
<http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx?kbid=326246>

Good Day
River Rat

"tweety358" <tweety358@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message <news:ADF891C0-166B-4152-8275-56D4DFAB229A@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
I purchased my computer used on ebay. It had windows xp already installed. I had a problem the other day when I was installing an update. It said windows xp was missing some parts and to reinsert the xp disc, which I don't have. I went to microsoft to ask for help and they said my computer had a select license agreement or software assurance home use program and that it would cost $35 for help. Is there any way to fix this problem and find the missing parts. Thank you for your help.

.

• References:

- ◆ Missing parts of Windows xp
 - ◇ From: tweety358
- Prev by Date: Re: What exactly does System Restore restore?
- Next by Date: RE: How do I fix corrupted files w/chkdisk
- Previous by thread: Re: Missing parts of Windows xp
- Next by thread: XP file search can't find files that have "O" attribute
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date

Re: Missing parts of Windows xp

◆ Thread