

Re: Sound Recorder/Volume Control

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.perform_maintain/2005-06/msg00608.htm

- From: "Terry" <talker2002-unsubscribe-@xxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 17 Jun 2005 15:16:04 -0700
-

I have tried both of your suggestions to no avail. That's why I posted to this group. Any other ideas?

Terry

"Ted Ziegler" <teddyz@xxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:u711s43cFHA.3032@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

- > Volume Control:
- > Control Panel > Sound and Audio Devices > Volume tab (first) > checkmark
- > in
- > 'Place volume icon in the taskbar'.

- >
- > Sound Recorder:
- > Search your hard disk for sndrec32.exe – it's usually in
- > \windows\system32.
- > Put a shortcut to that file in your start Menu (under Entertainment if you
- > wish.)

- >
- > --
- > Ted Ziegler
- > "You can do it if you try."

> "Terry" <talker2002-unsubscribe-@xxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:e3NBoc3cFHA.3120@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

- >> I've lost the Volume Control icon from my System Tray and Sound Recorder
- >> from the Entertainment heading of my Start/Programs list.

- >>
- >> I've tried re-installing via Add/Delete Programs but the App isn't
- > displayed
- >> there.

- >>
- >> As for re-installing XP, I can't do that either because I have SP2
- > installed
- >> and my XP Disc has SP1 and therefore believes my PC contains a newer
- > version

- >> and it shuts me down.
- >>

Re: Sound Recorder/Volume Control

>> How do I get my Sound Recorder and Volume Control Apps back where they >> belong?
>>
>> TIA,
>>
>> Terry
>>
>>
>
>

• References:

- ◆ Sound Recorder/Volume Control
 ◇ From: Terry
- ◆ Re: Sound Recorder/Volume Control
 ◇ From: Ted Zieglar

- Prev by Date: Re: Press F1 to continue
- Next by Date: Alexa
- Previous by thread: Re: Sound Recorder/Volume Control
- Next by thread: Slow XP shutdown after Spyware Doctor file quarantines
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread