Dinesh,

It comes up because you haven't told us when, what, or how your using your computer. Being a mind reader, I am going to assume that it comes up in Internet Explorer. If that the case, try a couple of things;

While in Internet Explorer, do a hard refresh – CTRL-F5

Your browser is not wanting to give up its cache. I suspect its one of the bugs related to your cache being full and IE being unable to overwrite it. Delete the cache from the Tools Menu > Internet Options, Delete Cookies, Delete Files.

Best,
Treeman
