

Re: Dynamic WHERE statement

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.setup_deployment/2005-02/0236.html

From: Jim Warren (jmwarren_at_msu.edu)

Date: 01/29/05

Date: Fri, 28 Jan 2005 19:19:41 -0500

Sorry about that, it was a very long day, about 2pm time slowed noticeably
"Admiral Q" <Star_Fleet_Admiral_Q(NOSPAM)@(SPAMNOT)hotmail.com> wrote in message news:u4$W1bZBFHA.1400@TK2MSFTNGP11.phx.gbl...

> In case you haven't figured it out, this is a "windows XP setup and > deployment group" and not a "how to code SQL2k group". Your best bet is > to > repost in one of the many SQL newsgroups for the "gurus" there to answer > your question. ;-)

>

> --

> Star Fleet Admiral Q @ your service!

>

>

> "Jim Warren" <jmwarren@msu.edu> wrote in message

> news:uRdZFGZBFHA.936@TK2MSFTNGP12.phx.gbl...

>> If I pass a variable to @Cost_Center that is 'SMS', 'SMP' OR 'ALL'

>> 'ALL' will return records that have either 'SMS' or 'SMP' in them.

>> Now I am using an if statement that has the entire SQL statement in the > body >> of the >> conditional.

>>

>> I tried this

>>

>> Where

>>

>> IF (@Cost_Center = 'All')

>>

>> Begin

>>

>> code...

>> and i.cost_center in ('SMS','SMP')

>>

>> End

>>

>> ELSE

>>

```
>> Begin
>>
>> code...
>> and i.cost_center = @Cost_Center
>>
>> End
>>
>>
>> Thanks
>> Jim
>>
>>
>
>
```