

Re: can't set hibernate option

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.setup_deployment/2005-02/1394.html

From: LoboMax (LoboMax_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 02/18/05

Date: Fri, 18 Feb 2005 01:09:01 -0800

hey, not sure if the tread got lost but, good on you!!! that is the solution.. that was why I asked if there was the Daemon tools installed. You just have to uninstall, reboot, set the hibernation, the install the tool again.

don't asked me why but it is those Microsoft things.

"MF2HD" wrote:

>
> I wrote
> I get that annoying message: Power Manager unable to reserve
> hibernation file, the process cannot access the file
> because it is being used by another process.
> On my other HDD this option works and D-Tools installed on both. And > there is no hiberfil.sys to delete.
>
>
> It seems I have to fix myself. All right. I uninstalled Alcohol, and > could hibernate again. It may sound strange, but when I re-installed it > the problem didn't come back.
>
>
>
> --
> MF2HD
>

> Posted via <http://www.mcse.ms>

> View this thread: <http://www.mcse.ms/message1346919.html>

>
>