

Re: Installing windows xp Activation

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.setup_deployment/2006-11/msg00027.htm

- From: david.ferguson0@xxxxxxxxxx
 - Date: 2 Nov 2006 00:44:03 -0800
-

nass wrote:

If you didn't activate in a matter of 30 days you will get this message or blocking you to login, which I think this what happen in your scenario, Am I Right?.

"david.ferguson0@xxxxxxxxxx" wrote:

Hi after reinstalling windows xp it will not let me log on because it tells me I haven't activated it yet. but it won't let me get any of my drivers etc installed so I can activate it over the internet. I know I can phone them and carry out the activation that way but I was just wondering why it would behave like this.

Any information would be greatly appreciated.

No my copy was activated but my hard disk got corrupt and I had to use a replacement hard disk. It was a clean install on a slightly used but freshly fdisked and formatted harddisk. Yes it's blocking the login. I just can't fathom out why it went belly up.