Here's my problem – I chose to do a reinstall of Windows XP from a setup disk I downloaded – same edition as was previously installed. Prior to doing so I retrieved the license key for my preinstalled version of Windows XP to use when I had reinstalled. I have now got to the stage where I need to enter the license key and it refuses this – I absolutely refuse to go out and buy another copy of Windows XP Home because I have already paid for this and 2 lots of Windows Vista, is there any way to get MSFT to renew my license key?
