I've been using Remote Desktop happily for years on 4 computers, including a laptop, all with XP Pro and on my "studio" network – still called "Workgroup"

Now I want to take the big step of trying to connect to the studio computers from the laptop via the internet, from far far away – what do I do – just plug the laptop into an internet socket and pray? – if only! I really have zero knowledge of domains etc

Can anyone enlighten me?!
