Hi, We have a directory with sensitive information that we would like to monitor to see who accesses it and attempts to access it. I have auditing enabled, but the logs are difficult to read and understand.

Ideally, I would like a program that monitors a directory, and writes to a log file each time someone accesses it, or attempts to (we're in an AD environment). It would be nice to be able to exclude the system and backup accounts from being logged.

Does anyone know of a utility that can do this? Thanks,
