Do you really expect to get an answer to a question like that on a public newsgroup???? Even if it were possible (and I hope it's not), that would give you and every other user complete control over any network they can get into. Not a good thing.....

Sorry, could anyone tell my how the process to get the password of the administrator when you are the USER permission have to access to the Network

So my question could we get the password of the Admin which we access as a User?

and if so, please tell how?
