

Reseting IE 6 On XP

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6.browser/2004-02/8095.htm>

From: Nate (anonymous_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 02/20/04

Date: Fri, 20 Feb 2004 14:57:29 -0800

Hi, I have problems with my IE 6 on Windows XP Home Edition. It has issues with Javascript handling, and also there is a plugin that some other user accidentally installed that causes fullscreen popups of ads with no link to close them. Also (which i think is part of the javascript handling errors) the cursor (in text areas on pages with very advanded Javascript) jumps randomly and makes it hard to type. after a few dozen words the cursor jumps and whoops! the cursor is up there ^ and the words are placed in the middle of another sentence. this is especially annoying when i am trying to write long emails. it does this of its on free will, not of a keyboard error or a mis-typed arrow key.

I have attempted to reset internet explorer by altering the "IsInstalled" registry key, but only to have the setup resetting my system. After the windows update has downloaded the components and is busy "Installing Components", a message comes up that says "The software you are installing has not passed Windows Logo testing to verify its compatibility with Windows XP. (Tell me why this testing is important.)" I found the article at "<http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx?scid=kb:en-us;828031>", but this solution didn't work. Either.

So, i tried again, and again the exact same problem occurs. I am the administrator of the computer and i have looked through the plugins and components in the registry, but nothing seems to be the problem. Is there a way to totally erase all the non-personalized settings of internet explorer 6? by non personalized i mean the all the settings except for my favorites, home page, cookies, security settings, etc....

I hope i can fix my very messed up Internet Explorer. Till then, hello Netscape.