All of a sudden in the last month or so....there is one site that I can't get on to. I get a message"page can not be displayed". This is a site that I have been to for years. when I type in the address it acts like its going to open, its says connecting to (site), then says done. Then the page cannot be displayed error message appears. I have checked all my security settings.Cleaned all cookies and internet folders. Can someone please help. Thanks in advance,
Shirley
