How is your antivirus software? Does it detect anything? If you don't have any anti-virus/firewall software installed then you could do an online scan at RAV:

and/or Panda:

Could be there's some spyware on your computer too. Download the "Ad-aware" program, which you can get for free from this website:

Make sure you update the 'reference' file before you run the program by clicking on the link "check for updates now" when you have launched the program.
