

Re: IE Error Problems (3rd attempt at resolving issue)

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6.browser/2004-08/5053.htm>

---

From: Robert Aldwinckle (robald_at_techemail.com)

Date: 08/24/04

Date: Tue, 24 Aug 2004 02:36:00 -0400

If you have tried all the conventional prescriptive solutions you should try a diagnostic approach instead.

I don't have your OS but I have replied to a few Win9x users recently with related suggestions.

<

<http://groups.google.com/groups?num=20&hl=en&lr=&ie=UTF-8&c2coff=1&q=watson+author%3Aaldwinckle+gro>

>

Good luck

Robert Aldwinckle

---

"Brian" <maddydoggy@msn.com> wrote in message news:ab9001c48861$34e42a30$a401280a@phx.gbl...

> HI,

>

> I have posted this problem 2 times previous but so far I > have not been able to resolve it. It is starting to look > like a re-format is in order which I am trying to avoid as > it seems a tad drastic for such a little problem.

>

> This is a last ditch attempt at getting some help.

>

> Please find the previous posts below wiht the problem
> description and steps taken so far.

>

> Thanks

>

> Brian

>

> Previous post:

>

>

>

>

>

> Hi Again All,

microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6.browser: Re: IE Error Problems (3rd attempt at resolving issue)

>
> Please find below a post I added yesterday. Gary had > suggested I update the Libraries for Win98 which I did, but > the problem remains
>
> Any other ideas?
>
> Thanks
>
> Previous post:
>
> Hi All,
>
> Got a problem puzzelling me on a Win 98 based system using > IE6.
>
> I can connect to the Internet and collect email etc with > no problems. However, on certain sites, and only on > certain links (which link changes each time)it will pop up > with the 'Explorer error' window, asking if you want to > send an error report and if it should re-start Internet > Explorer. Every time I send a report and it does not find > a help link to send to or suggest the problem.
>
> One error report suggested it was a problem with > the 'MSVBVM60.DLL' file so I downloaded and replaced that > one and another said it was a problem with > the 'MSVCRT.DLL' file. I have downloaded this but am > unable to install it as windows is using the original.
>
> I have ran the IE6 repair tool, conducted a reg clean, > removed all spyware, checked for hacking software, re-set > security settings to default, checked for virus' (using on > line scan), conducted a defrag, scanned the HD and re> installed windows over the top of itself. I have also > downloaded all available updates and re-downloaded and > installed IE 6 seperatly.
>
> After all this, it still does the same.
>
> Anyone have any ideas?
>
> Thanks in advance
>
> Brian
>
> .
>
>