Hi.

We have a curious problem on certain computers IE will only open about 5 links on a page before it just stops – I mean the hour glass is spinning like it is processing but the page will not load.

If I copy the current URL, close and re-open IE, paste the URL and then click the link that IE had stalled on it then opens fine but will stop again after 5 or so links.

I have had this problem before and aonly a full reinstall seemed to fix it.

The computer in question has been scanned for viruses and ad-ware/spy-ware and nothing was found.

This computer is just one many at the college with all the IE setting set exactly the same as all the rest.

It had been working fine until recently.
