I recently got infected with a CoolWebSearch homepage hijacker and the only way I could find to rid myself of it was to delete it from the registry myself.

I was very careful to only delete the files that it has attached because they were all marked with the same description.

However, after finishing up and restarting IE6 will no longer open and I now have a MSScript Control error and a window for Telnet opens. I have no idea what any of this is and all help is appreciated.
