

Re: How to upload ? (IE 6.0 SP1)

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6.browser/2005-04/msg0023>

---

- From: "Jon Kennedy" <jkennedy2@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 31 Mar 2005 23:25:28 -0500
-

Adding photos or documents to MSN Groups online storage is done through their web interface - and for photos, they have a special upload tool you may choose to use. From the online Help on that site:

"If you are using a Windows operating system with either MSN Explorer or Microsoft Internet Explorer 4.0 or later, you can add photos to an album using the MSN Photo Upload Control. Only managers and members with permission can add photos to an album.

"Go to the Pictures page. To get there In the left pane, click Pictures. (If the page you are currently on has no left pane, click Back until you reach a page that does.) Click Show albums if you see that link directly below the page title.

"Find the album you want, and then click Add Photos to the far right. (If you see a page titled Install the MSN Photo Upload Control, click Install to download (To copy programs or other files from the Internet to your computer.) a special photo-adding tool to your hard disk.) In the file directory, click a folder, and then click the photos you want to add, or click Select All to select all thumbnails (A preview of a larger picture. Thumbnails are small to reduce download time but large enough to provide a general idea of the full-size image.) in the folder. You will see a check mark on each selected photo.

"If you want to customize your photos, click Edit Photos and use the set of photo-editing tools. Click Upload Now."

For documents or other files -

"Is special software necessary to post a document? When you first attempt to upload a file, Microsoft Internet Explorer and MSN Explorer users are offered the opportunity to automatically download and install MSN File Upload Control. This software enables you to upload several files at once. If you choose not to install File Upload Control, you can still upload photos and files individually using your browser's standard upload tools."

Re: How to upload ? (IE 6.0 SP1)

[The browser's upload tools will be invoked by the web site itself]

"Only managers and members with permission can add a file to Documents folders. Go to the Documents page. To get there In the left pane, click Documents. (If the page you are currently on has no left pane, click Back until you reach a page that does.)

"Click the folder that you want to add a file to. The folder opens.

"Click Add File. Select the check box next to the file you want to add to Documents. Click Upload Now. "

--

Jon R. Kennedy
Charlotte, NC, USA
jkennedy2@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

"Nick" <Nick@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:BAD3AE60-C615-4E79-B527-64CB2F623392@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Just found MSN Groups on-line storage. I have Windows 98 & haven't found a way to integrate online storage into the file manager. All the "help" I've seen (IE6 and on-line says "just upload as normal" but nowhere does it ever explain *how* to upload. I've gone through all the controls in IE and I don't see anything like "upload". Please advise.

.