

Re: How to upload ? (IE 6.0 SP1)

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6.browser/2005-04/msg0041>

- From: "Nick" <Nick@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 2 Apr 2005 11:11:02 -0800
-

Jon, thanks for your response. First, I am talking exclusively about documents. Second, yes, I had already read the help which you have thoughtfully copied into your post (thanks) and I had chosen not to download more software. Third, I've looked at the page <http://www.msusers.com/MyStorage.msnw?comm=hgq0p3dfjn4a0j7jub3k8i1v14&type=files> again today and I see a "File Deletion Tool" on the page but I do not see any indication of any way to add or upload files. You wrote "Adding photos or documents to MSN Groups online storage is done through their web interface" What is this "web interface"? Is it Internet Explorer? The OLH says "...you can still upload photos and files individually using your browser's standard upload tools." What are these "standard upload tools"? How or where do I find them? I have looked and haven't seen hide nor hair of them. What am I doing wrong?

"Jon Kennedy" wrote:

- > Adding photos or documents to MSN Groups online storage is done through
- > their web interface – and for photos, they have a special upload tool you
- > may choose to use. From the online Help on that site:
- >
- > "If you are using a Windows operating system with either MSN Explorer or
- > Microsoft Internet Explorer 4.0 or later, you can add photos to an album
- > using the MSN Photo Upload Control. Only managers and members with
- > permission can add photos to an album.
- >
- > "Go to the Pictures page. To get there In the left pane, click Pictures.
- > (If the page you are currently on has no left pane, click Back until you - > reach a page that does.) Click Show albums if you see that link directly
- > below the page title.
- >
- > "Find the album you want, and then click Add Photos to the far right. (If
- > you see a page titled Install the MSN Photo Upload Control, click Install
- > to download (To copy programs or other files from the Internet to your
- > computer.) a special photo-adding tool to your hard disk.) In the file
- > directory, click a folder, and then click the photos you want to add, or
- > click Select All to select all thumbnails (A preview of a larger picture.
- > Thumbnails are small to reduce download time but large enough to provide a
- > general idea of the full-size image.) in the folder. You will see a check

Re: How to upload ? (IE 6.0 SP1)

> mark on each selected photo.
>
> "If you want to customize your photos, click Edit Photos and use the set of > photo-editing tools. Click Upload Now."
>
> For documents or other files –
>
> "Is special software necessary to post a document? When you first attempt to > upload a file, Microsoft Internet Explorer and MSN Explorer users are > offered the opportunity to automatically download and install MSN File > Upload Control. This software enables you to upload several files at once.
> If you choose not to install File Upload Control, you can still upload > photos and files individually using your browser's standard upload tools."
>
> [The browser's upload tools will be invoked by the web site itself]
>
> "Only managers and members with permission can add a file to Documents > folders. Go to the Documents page. To get there In the left pane, click > Documents. (If the page you are currently on has no left pane, click Back > until you reach a page that does.)
>
> "Click the folder that you want to add a file to. The folder opens.
>
> "Click Add File. Select the check box next to the file you want to add to > Documents. Click Upload Now. "
>
> --
>
> Jon R. Kennedy
> Charlotte, NC, USA
> jkennedy2@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>
> "Nick" <Nick@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
> news:BAD3AE60-C615-4E79-B527-64CB2F623392@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>> Just found MSN Groups on-line storage. I have Windows 98 & haven't found >> a >> way to integrate online storage into the file manager. All the "help" >> I've >> seen (IE6 and on-line says "just upload as normal" but nowhere does it >> ever >> explain how to upload. I've gone through all the controls in IE and I >> don't see anything like "upload". Please advise.
>
>
>

-
- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: How to upload ? (IE 6.0 SP1)
 - ◇ From: Jon Kennedy

Re: How to upload ? (IE 6.0 SP1)

- References:

- ◆ How to upload ? \(IE 6.0 SP1\)

- ◇ From: Nick

- ◆ Re: How to upload ? \(IE 6.0 SP1\)

- ◇ From: Jon Kennedy

- Prev by Date: Re: Macromedia Flash v7 Does Not Load

- Next by Date: Re: MSHTML.dll

- Previous by thread: Re: How to upload ? \(IE 6.0 SP1\)

- Next by thread: Re: How to upload ? \(IE 6.0 SP1\)

- Index(es):

- ◆ Date

- ◆ Thread