Hi Brian :-)

Try the information here and see if it helps:

Any page that has Javascript at all (even www.google.com), the Information Bar will pop up saying that the site is trying to block active content. This goes for EVERY site. I tried reducing the security to nothing in the Internet Options temporarily - NOTHING. I got rid of a few infections (spyware) on the system with AdAware and Spybot. And then I downloaded Microsoft Anti-Spyware. It found a few more instances, and erased them. There are no Objects in the "View Objects" - I disabled all of them. I fixed the Winsock2 for XP, which wasn't having problems. There was no need to run

LSPfix.

It's the oddest thing. It pops up twice in a row for Yahoo.com. Only straight HTML sites seem to not bring up the bar. So I tried reinstalling the Java Virtual Machine (sun's). Nothing. It has be perplexed. Has anyone seen this before? It must be an infection of some sort, but I have cleaned it out every way I know how (I also ran HijackThis and removed 2 BHOs). They haven't reappeared. Please help!

Thanks!
