

Access block after installing Nortons Internet Security 2006

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6.browser/2006-02/msg0018>

- From: "SCOUTY" <cormack@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 2 Feb 2006 15:52:56 -0800
-

HI Please forgive my ignorance as I am a really newbie to this side of computers but wish I wasnt. Recently we upgraded to Broadband from a dial-up modem. Not a prob, great speed. Everything working well until I decided to trial the NIS 2006 as recommended on Paradise home page. I installed it per instructions wizard, and ran it. Problem is now I cant access any E-mail pages or web pages. I contacted Paradise who suggested contacting Symantec, as they said it sounded like a security block. Symantec told me to take it out, which I did but my access setting are still screwed up somewhere. They cant help me now as I dont have their product in my system! Im stuck as I dont know enough about the system to correct myself. Paradise have checked my settings and server details and all is correct. I can ping but still not receive actual information. It goes away, and tries but It keeps telling me "Page cannot be displayed"....Very frustrating...cant get on-line to findout so am using a cafe computer. Any help in plain-speak would be greatly appreciated. I have learnt a lot about my setting and system by this happening but cant fix. Thanks

Donna

.