Hello Nancy,

Thank you for your reply.

Jon's suggestion is right. You can follow the steps below to reinstall TCP/IP components:

1. Click Start, click Settings, and then click Control Panel.
2. Double-click Network.
3. On the Configuration tab, click TCP/IP, and then click Remove.
4. Click Add, click Protocol, and then click Add again.
5. From the Manufacturer list, select Microsoft.
6. From the Network Protocol list, select TCP/IP, and then click OK.
7. Click TCP/IP, and then click Properties.
8. In the TCP/IP Properties dialog box, verify the settings on the following tabs:
  - Bindings: Make sure that only Client for MS Networks is selected.
  - WINS Configuration: Make sure that Disable WINS Resolution is selected.
  - IP Address: Make sure that Obtain an IP address automatically is selected.
  - DNS Configuration: Make sure that Disable DNS is selected.
9. Click OK two times, and then click Yes when you are prompted to restart the computer.

Please let me know if you have any other concerns or need anything else.

Sincerely,
Kenxl Zou

I got the Outlook Express backed up. Keep my fingers crossed I'll get them back when I'm through. I also printed off the articles you suggested. I came across the info on Winsock & TCP/IP. So I queried for the Winsock files and found I am missing "Winsock.dll". Isn't there an easier way to remove & installed Winsock. I thought in the past when I had this problem the help desk had me remove ? and then when I re-booted it either re-installed itself or maybe I used my Win98SE disk? Do you know how to do this procedure? I know I didn't have to manually do anything.....Thanks !

Hello Nancy,

Thank you for your reply.

I completely understand your feeling when you lost all of your mail. If you

I'm sorry I should have mentioned my OS – Windows 98SE
I look around and see if these articles can be used with Win98SE or I'm sure I can find a link. I'll report back as to which way worked.....

One more question regarding backing up my Outlook Express.

Could I just copy the whole file onto a cd and then when I've re-installed the IE6 & Outlook Express just copy it back and over-right the folder? I'm scared that I won't be able to get my messages back in readable form since the last time I tried this I never could get them back.

Thanks !

Hello Nancy,

Thank you for your reply.

Since resetting IE not work, we may try repairing and reinstalling

IE

follow the steps below:
(Please backup your outlook express data

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

first,

you

can refer to this KB article:

<http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx?scid=kb:EN-US:270670>)

1. If you're on XP SP2, try the suggestions in KB 870700, here:

How

to troubleshoot problems accessing secure Web pages with Internet

Explorer

6

Service Pack 2, <http://support.microsoft.com/?kbid=870700#9> first.

With XP you need to go (as an Administrator) to Start|Run and type "sfc/scannow" (without the quotes and notice the space between the c

and the /.) Have your XP CD handy and be prepared to go get a cup of coffee –

it takes a while. This will do the same thing as Repair IE6 for XP but a

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

lot more, that is find any corrupt system files and replace them.

It

does

NOT, however, re-register
the various software components, and you will need to do this manually using regsvr32.exe if any are shown

as replaced in Event Viewer\System.

Be aware that under certain circumstances (Win2k before SP4 – see

mskb

814510,

<http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx?scid=kb;EN-US;Q814510>)

sfc can erroneously overwrite (restore over) previously installed

files

from certain "hotfixes" which will then need to be re-installed.

This

may also apply to XP. To check for this, after running sfc, open a Cmd

window

and enter "qfecheck /v /l:c:\" (without the quotes). If you don't have qfecheck installed, it can be obtained for XP here:

<http://www.microsoft.com/downloads/release.asp?ReleaseID=35468>

and for Win2k, obtain qfecheck here:

<http://www.microsoft.com/downloads/release.asp?ReleaseID=35470>

A version stated to be common to both is available
here:

Further information about
qfecheck is available here:

<http://support.microsoft.com/kb/282784/EN/>

2. Another alternative for just IE6 repair if you don't have IE6

listed

in

Add-Remove Programs,
then in Start|Run then enter
"rundll32

setupwbv.dll,IE6Maintenance" without the quotes, exactly as shown

(it's case sensitive), and select the appropriate entry.

More detailed info is available here: Description of the Internet

Explorer

Repair Tool

<http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx?scid=kb:EN-US;q194177>

3. If you find that you need to do a re-install of IE6 then you can consider the following:

1) Insert the Windows installation CD in your CD-ROM drive.

2) Click Start, and click Run.

3) Copy the command
prompt below in the Open box (exactly as show –

it's case sensitive), and click OK. (Assumes %System% is installed in

Windows

on your C:\ partition.
Change as appropriate for your particular situation.) Rundll32.exe setupapi,InstallHinfSection
DefaultInstall

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

c:\windows\inf\ie.inf

4) It will display a "File Needed" screen, click "Browse.." and browse

to

<CD-ROM drive>\i386, (where <CD-ROM drive> is the drive letter of

the

CD-ROM, For example,
D:).

5) Click Open, click Ok, it should begin reinstalling Internet

Explorer.

(NOTE: It has been reported, courtesy of Steve Wechsler, that if you're on

Windows XP Pro SP2, it may prompt you for some files that it cannot find

the WINDOWS\ServicePackFiles\i386
folder, which you'll then need

to browse to. It's thought that this may apply to XP Home

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

also. The specific files are iexplore.exe which actually IS in the i386

folder,
mswrd632.wpc, which is located in the Program
Files\Common
Files\Microsoft
Shared\TextConv folder, AND, INSTALL.IN_ ,

which will be located on a slipstreamed XP Pro CD in the i386

folder and also located in the i386 folder on an XP Pro SP1 disk. So, copying the 2 files

above

to

the WINDOWS\ServicePackFiles\i386
folder should allow you to be able

to

repair/reinstall IE on an SP2 system by right clicking ie.inf in the WINDOWS\inf folder and selecting Install or using the rundll32.exe

line

given above.)

4. You can try this also:

<http://windowsxp.mvps.org/IEFIX.htm>

5. Lastly, here is a link to a MSKB article about re-installing

TRIED TO DELETE THE TRASH FOLDER
THE PC
FROZE UP.
I HAD TO DO AN ALT/CNTRL/DELETE TO CLOSE IS DOWN.
RESTARTED
THE PC AND TRIED AGAIN.
SAME PROBLEM.
THEN I DID A RESTART
AND TRIED AGAIN, SAME PROBLEM.
I ALSO TRIED OTHER SITES BUT WHEN I WENT TO THE 2nd
OR 3rd

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

SITE IT WOULDN'T LOAD UP.

I ALSO TRIED TO ACCESS MY HOTMAIL VIA OUTLOOK EXPRESS, THE WAY I USUALLY GET IT.
BUT OE WOULD NOT CONNECT WITH HOTMAIL.
BUT I HAVE NO TROUBLE GETTING
E-MAIL FROM MY ISP ACCOUNT.

IS THERE ANY WAY I CAN RE-INSTALL THE
WITHOUT MESSING UP MY OUTLOOK EXPRESS.
I DID THAT ONCE BEFORE
AND IT COPIED
OVER

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

Re: This page cannot be displayed ?

OUTLOOK
EXPRESS AND I LOST ALL MY SAVED
E-MAILS.
I'VE TRIED SAVING
E-MAIL
MSG'S
BUT I CAN NEVER GET THEM TO OPEN, SO IT'S THE SAME AS IF I LOST THEM WITH THE RE-INSTALL.
Thanks !
Nancy

and
as I said I can't get more than the first page.
I then have to re-start
to get to the next page.
Help
would be appreciated.....Thanks
