

Re: Search Assistant Not Working Right

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6.browser/2006-03/msg0131>

- From: "Jan II" <abuseSPAM@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 18 Mar 2006 13:32:39 -0500
-

They just now changed here, or at least within the last hour. I see the same search list I did a few days ago when I first checked it due to Anna's post. It then changed the Customize to only two selections, Search Assistant and Use one search service. No list boxes, and when I tried to select one of the choices, they would not work. When I clicked OK, it just brought the search list up again, and all that was in it was the search window and the GO button.

Now, I see the same Search window in the panel, but, the Customize is as it was before.

Hope this helps.

Jan :)
MS MVP – Windows IE/OE [DTS/AumHa]
Smiles are meant to be shared,
that's why they're so contagious.

"PA Bear" <PABearMVP@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:%23knrsXjSGHA.4616@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

Check again today and see if things have changed at all. They have here.
Why? I have no idea.

--
~Robear Dyer (PA Bear)
MS MVP–Windows (IE/OE, Security, Shell/User)

PA Bear wrote:

See these recent threads: <http://snipurl.com/f05w>

Yes, Search Assistant has changed. No, we don't know how or why. (This may have something to do with it: http://seattlepi.nwsourc.com/business/260821_msftads25.html.) No, there doesn't seem to be a way of getting the old Search Assistant back.

Re: Search Assistant Not Working Right

Steve Horrillo wrote:

I notice the Search Assistant isn't working right anymore.
"Next" is now
greyed out and will only let me use one chosen search engine. This has happened on my XP as well as my Win 2000 machine.
What's wrong?