

Re: Security Setting Problems

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6.browser/2006-06/msg0100>

---

- From: "Don R" <donr@xxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 22 Jun 2006 19:05:05 -0500
-

"PA Bear" <PABearMVP@xxxxxxxxx> wrote in message <news:elyHealGHA.3816@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

Don R wrote:

> Don R wrote:
> > Greetings,
> > I recently installed the beta version of IE7.0 and now when I go > > to > > my > > mail program and click on a hyperlink, nothing happens. It used > > to > > open > > up my browser and display the web page. I've looked for the > > setting > > in > > security but can't find it. Any help would be appreciated.

For those who responded to my initial request for help –
Sorry about being off topic. I uninstalled IE7.0 Beta 2 and that fixed the problem. I should know better than to install beta stuff on my computer. Have a great day.

That's a pity. All you had to do was configure IE7 as your default browser.

--

~Robear Dyer (PA Bear)

MS MVP–Windows (IE/OE, Shell/User, Security), Aumha.org VSOP, DTS–L.org

I'm aware that making IE7 my default browser would have fixed the problem. I chose to just back out of the whole problem.

.