Thanks for the reply. I was going through the add/remove programs in the Control Panel and came across a program called "Otto". Ever heard of it ? I went to click on it to "change or remove" to see if I could find out what this program was about and poof, it was removed. Usually this type of click would get a confirmation to remove to click on.

I thought my McAfee had a spyware program built in but guess not. I usually use Norton and every so often use the Housecalls.com site just to make sure Norton is doing it's job.

I have a brand new laptop with IE6 on it. It constantly shuts down. First given me a box that says do I want to send this info to MS. When I say Yes or No it then shuts down and I have to start all over. This doesn't have just a few times, it constant. I wouldn't think that a brand new install would have this problem. Help Please !

OS: WinXP Pro SP2
1gb Memory and HD

I would suspect a malware infection.
