

IE Security Patch 867282 Problems (Win2K)

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6.setup/2005-02/0244.html>

From: WoofWoof (oftenbark_at_hotmail.com)

Date: 02/14/05

Date: Mon, 14 Feb 2005 13:39:15 -0500

Anyone else having problems with Security Fix 867282 for Internet Explorer SP1 on Win2K?

After installing this and rebooting, I notice a number of problems:

- Microsoft Update will no longer scan for updates. That is I can click on the "Scan for Updates" link but nothing happens. This link seems to want to run javascript and the inactivity looks the same as if I had javascript turned off in my security settings (I haven't, I checked).
- In Microsoft Update "Installation History" the text area is blank.
- When I open <Add/Remove Programs> I get all the program icons in the window but no text. (I can't even remove the fix that way.)
- If I do a "Find (on this page)" on a web page I get an error.

There may be other problems these are the ones I noticed first.

I restored a backup, checked that it was working correctly then installed this Security Fix alone and got identical problems so I'm sure it's this fix that's doing it and it seems to be a "hard" problem on this machine.

On another Win2K installation (on another machine) the fix installed without apparent problems.

Any ideas?