

Re: error on booting OE: can't delete folder

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6_outlookexpress/2004-07/2

From: PA Bear (PABear_at_mvps.org)

Date: 07/19/04

Date: Mon, 19 Jul 2004 02:17:50 -0400

There's apparently more to the story. Why did you have to "rebuild [the] OE environment" and what did you do? What did you change via "trial and error"?

--

~PA Bear

Bob wrote:

> OE opens and seems to work fine after I close the message. Since it's a > new box, I haven't had a reason for running Disk Cleanup. It's possible > that the early attempts to rebuild my OE environment messed things up a > bit. I'll try it. Thanks.

>

> "PA Bear" <PABear@mvps.org> wrote in message

> news:uip02PwaEHA.4036@TK2MSFTNGP11.phx.gbl...

>> And if you close the error message, does OE then open?

>>

>> Have you run Disk Cleanup lately and deleted contents of TEMP folders?

>> --

>> Bob wrote:

>>> Cannot delete Temp: Access is denied

>>> Make sure the disk is not full or write-protected >>> and that the file is not currently in use.

>>>

>>>> I'm trying something new: I'm moving the family to a limited

>>>> (non-administrator) account on XP Home on a new machine. After some >>>> trial and error, I've got all of our email and news accounts set up and >>>> our address book and emails restored. Everything seems to work.

>>>> However, when I boot OE, I get this error...