

Re: Can't send smtp email

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6_outlookexpress/2004-09/4

From: PA Bear (PABear_at_mvps.org)

Date: 09/23/04

Date: Thu, 23 Sep 2004 16:26:33 -0400

Please excuse the fun we may have been having at what may seem to be your expense, Joe. Rest assured that we've only been laughing with you in the last day or so.

> I have used a competitors tech.
> support (IBM) for years

We are not Microsoft and the MS newsgroups are not MS Tech Support (which may be reached via <http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx>). We everyone of us are volunteers here.

> I have never been giving such a world win chase* > for an answer.

Hmm, we've been waiting for you to answer our questions, Joe. Are you not a native speaker of English? That may explain at least part of the loggerheads to which we seem to have come. Many of us are multilingual here, you know. Voulez-vous essayer nos conversations dedans, peut-Ãatre, franÃ§aises? ...o forse in italiano?

> You volunteers are very fortunate to have the financial > resources to give your time to this discussion group, I am very jealous my > friend.

<blushing> Why, thank you, Joe. As it happens, many of us are in fact poor, retired or physically disabled folk whose sole contact with the outside world is through our little keyboards and monitors. May you live long and prosper...and perhaps consider joining us here and sharing your knowledge with other users.

> How did Kate Adams get to cut and paste section of web > site without having any reference to herself in the list of sent > replies

The British young lady's name is Kath, not Kate, Adams. And seeing how you've so far posted to at least five (5) different threads in three (3) different newsgroups (<http://snipurl.com/99dh>), none of them being a thread microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6_outlookexpress: Re: Can't send smtp email you began, we've had to copy/paste from posts in one newsgroup to reply to those in another so that we, at least, can keep track of who said what, to whom...and when.

As you have freely posted your business's local POP3 and SMTP servers in all of these threads, it didn't take much to go from 'POP3.jmmresource.com' to <http://www.jmmresource.com/>, poorly coded as it may be.

> How did I get 2 questions in this discussion group, I > could have sworn I only created one here..

It may be because you've had at least two (2) threads with identical Subjects going in two (2) or (3) newsgroups at the same time, and to maintain our sanity, at least, one or more of us have crossposted a reply in one newsgroup to another. For example, the thread to which I am now replying is and has been crossposted to both the OE6 and WinXP General newsgroups. [I am replying from the OE6 newsgroup.]

Or it may be because you, possibly inadvertently, began a new thread with the same Subject. When you do this, your replies very often will not "thread" properly and instead display as a new thread...to which others unwittingly may reply, not knowing that a similar conversation has been ongoing in another thread.

This is why we ask that you begin your own thread (not post a "Me, too" reply in another one), in one newsgroup, and that you always post further replies or comments to only that thread.

Have a wonderful evening, Joe!

--

~PA Bear

* www.vizualizewhirledpeas.vbg