

Re: ÿþ< messages are confusing. Anybody know what is wrong?

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6_outlookexpress/2004-12/2

From: Frank Saunders, MS-MVP IE/OE (franksaunders_at_mvps.org)

Date: 12/15/04

Date: Wed, 15 Dec 2004 05:54:36 -0600

"SD" <sue.darnell@verizon.net> wrote in message news:41BFD7B2.3828232@verizon.net

- > From my sister (posting for her):
- > "Can some one give me a SIMPLE explanation of why
- > when I reply to SOME emails the only thing that is
- > received is a YP message,
- > yet if I initiate a NEW email to the same person
- > saying the same thing..
- > I do not get it. Is there a way to avoid this
- > annoying problem?"
- > I'm not sure what is going on there. But if I
- > email her (she uses OE) (I use Nutscape)
- > she replies and it looks like gibberish, but only
- > 3 characters:
- > "ÿþ<"
- > Wha it is I can't figure out. She said one day a
- > window popped up and asked her if she wanted to
- > "compress" some folders in OE.
- > She clicked "yes".
- > Then when she rplies to somone after this, it
- > asked if she wanted to use unicode or something
- > or send "as is".
- > She clicked "Unicode" (or whatever it was)..
- > Now she can't reply to me or it looks like "ÿþ<"
- > only.
- > No message, no nothing.
- > Just "ÿþ<".
- > Someone help us please?
- > Btw, my OE is stuck. opens and crashes!
- >
- > -sd

It's a bug in some versions of OE. If I remember correctly, it can be fixed by choosing Include message in reply (Tools | Options | Send).

microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6_outlookexpress: Re: ýþ< messages are confusing. Anybody know what is wrong?

--

Frank Saunders, MS-MVP, IE/OE

Please respond in Newsgroup only. Do not send email

<http://www.fismjs.com>