

Re: Reply to email

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6_outlookexpress/2005-08/m

- From: "Ron Sommer" <rsommer@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 20 Aug 2005 09:01:04 -0500
-

"Frank Saunders, MS-MVP, IE/OE" <franksaunders@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:OUQRoyYpFHA.3516@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

> "PSJ" <psjcal@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message

> news:e%23wmgWYpFHA.1088@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

>> Instead of the > that precedes each line in news when replying, there >> is a heavy vertical line when replying to email; this line does not >> allow you to interject responses as the line simply adds on & the >> interjected response looks like part of the original email. I have >> looked at Tools/Options/Send & found that the > is checked when >> sending in plain text & I have plain text set for sending email but >> it makes no difference I get that line. So far my only work around is >> to copy the original/create a new post/paste & then respond >> --awkward. I'm sure I'm missing something.

>

> And you can interject comments. Put the cursor where you want and press > the Decrease Indent button on the Format Bar.

>

> --

> Frank Saunders, MS-MVP, IE/OE

> Please respond in Newsgroup. Do not send email

> <http://www.fjsmjs.com>

> Protect your PC

> <http://www.microsoft.com/security/protect/>

>

>

>

After placing the cursor, I press Enter a few times to get a blank area, then Decrease Indent.

--

Ron Sommer

-
- Follow-Ups:

Re: Reply to email

◆ Re: Reply to email

◇ From: Frank Saunders, MS–MVP, IE/OE

• References:

◆ Reply to email

◇ From: PSJ

◆ Re: Reply to email

◇ From: Frank Saunders, MS–MVP, IE/OE

- Prev by Date: Re: Reply to email
- Next by Date: Re: New Post Test
- Previous by thread: Re: Reply to email
- Next by thread: Re: Reply to email
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread