It is much easier to test by setting up a new Identity than it is to change the MBs around.

How do you know the registry is not corrupt without testing?

Ron

I do not know if it will replicate . I will try on one of the other servers tonight by installing this MOBO that I suspect caused this change on this system. I hope to replicate it and if not I will try another approach. Identity is not damaged and everything else on this newsreader is perfect.

OE here is only used as a newsreader and nothing else. No Folders except for the default ones and they are all empty.

I have 42 newsgroups set up and that is it. My mail client is OL\Exchange and OS is W2K3 SP1 and SBS. The groups do not have more that 100 posts in any of them since I clean and delete read ones every night. Compacting is also scheduled once every 3 days on the newsgroups. I am clean here.

Peter,
If you are having a settings problem in an Identity, then creating a new Identity is something to try.
I don't understand your exact issue.
If you replicated it on another machine, then describe the issue in more detail to see if the issue can be replicated by other people.

To whom did you post this too. Seems that it is for another post according to what is below. Besides this has nothing to do with an Identity issue which BTW I have already tried on another machine where I replicated this issue with the exact same steps

Create a new Identity.
