Some accounts do NOT show in OE all the folders that I have in hotmail.com.

How do I get ALL the hotmail.com folders to display (along with the contents thereof) in OE?

Do not tell me to cancel these accounts and reopen them – I already did that and THOSE are the accounts that fail to show all the hotmail.com folders in OE – they DID show all the accounts prior to closing/reopening them!!

In general, I have found that having more than one Hotmail account in any given MS Outlook Express Identity leads to problems. Often, messages which should only be in the account folders for one of the accounts get reduplicated in many, or all of the other account folders. The only work around that I found to be effective is to limit myself to one MSN Hotmail account per MS Outlook Express Identity.

I am using XP home with IE/OE 6.0.

I actually have six hotmail accounts that I read via OE

I have NEVER had any mail from one hotmail account get into some other hotmail account when accessed via OE. In other words, hotmail account A and hotmail account B, when viewed in OE the mail appears in the correct A=A, B=B accounts.

Beyond that, your MSOE Hotmail folders only mirror what is available on the Hotmail servers. You may need to tweak your Synchronization settings, but I never had a problem with that.

How do I do that to make the folder appear – synchronization settings just lists the folders that are in the folder list and the folder is not in the list – see below. (Said folder IS on the hotmail server.)

Any messages which you want stored locally only, but not on the MSN servers, must be stored in a folder under the Local Folders tree. Any time that you open MSOE
