A .email (or .ema) or .ezm file is an alternate file extension for an ..EML file. One option is to save the attachment, then rename with an ..EML file name.

Or you can create a file association for .email, .ema or .ezm files.

You can get to File Associations via:

- My Computer
- View (Win95/98/NT4/Me) or Tools (Win2000 or WinXP) menu
- Folder Options (or Options)
- File Types
- New Type
- New
- Action: OPEN

The application used needs to be:

"C:\PROGRAM FILES\OUTLOOK EXPRESS\MSIMN.EXE" /eml:%1

Content Type (MIME) should be:

message/rfc822

I have been receiving email that sometimes has, what appears to be, a EMAIL extension, like a wmv for a movie clip. When I try and process the email I get a msg. returned that says I have NO pgm. associated with the attachment. I have searched for email, on this group, but get everything

Re: email extension can't be processed what pgm. is associated with it

associated with
email back and can't find my particular problem
Thank You
