

Re: My signature on e-mails

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6_outlookexpress/2007-02/m

- From: "Ron Sommer" <rsommer@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 22 Feb 2007 04:58:16 -0600
-

The easiest way to save in Notepad is to Save As and put the name in quotes, "signature.htm".

—

Ronald Sommer

"Andy" <brackenburn@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:epvjIOeVHHA.4828@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

: Hi Nina,

:

: I had the same problem, but now have my scanned signature "inserted" into E-Mails perfectly, thanks to the following, thanks to Steve Cochran:

:

: "Copy this code:

:

: <HTML>

: <BODY>

:

: </BODY>

: </HTML>

:

: and paste it into a new Notepad window. Edit the src value to represent the

: full path to the image you saved. Then save the file and give it an htm

: file extension. Then click on the file to open it and verify that the image

: is displayed (if its not, then the path to the image in the src is incorrect

: and you will need to fix it).

:

: Then use that file in OE as your signature for HTML formatted messages (it : will not work for plain text).

:

: steve "

:

: Good Luck.

: Andy I.

:

:

Re: My signature on e-mails

:
: "Nina" <Nina@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
: news:67444FAC-E766-4F79-BD2F-9A266DEE979D@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
: I would like to scan my signature and include it in e-mails and letters in : Works. I've tried doing it but have failed on three occasions. Anyone
: managed to do it successfully?
:
:
:
:
.
.