

Re: Unable to "send page by email"

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.inetexplorer.ie6_outlookexpress/2007-08/m

- From: Bob Fliegel <rfliegel@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 14 Aug 2007 14:56:01 -0700
-

Resolved the prob by upgrading from IE6 to IE7, but still don't understand why the Send Page by Email function didn't work in IE6. Oh well, that's now moot.

"PA Bear" wrote:

What system changes (i.e., installs/uninstalls/updates/upgrades) occurred about a week ago?

Do you have an available Restore Point from a week ago? Does restoring the machine to this state resolve the problem?

--

~PA Bear, working offline

Bob Fliegel wrote:

In IE6. And, yes, I am attempting to send as you described, as I always have been able to do until about a week ago.

"PA Bear" wrote:

Are you viewing the nytimes.com page in IE or another browser?

Assuming IE:

Is it IE6 or IE7?

Are you sending the page via File > Send > Page by e-mail? (I just tried doing it this way and did not encounter any problems.)

[Totally OT but /wow!/ =>

<http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/13/washington/13cnd-rove.html>

Re: Unable to "send page by email"

]

~PA Bear

Bob Fliegel wrote:

Win XP Pro w/SP2.

Most recent Win update: KB936357 on 7/17.

"PA Bear" wrote:

Windows version?

What Windows Updates did you recently install?

--

~Robear Dyer (PA Bear)
MS MVP–Windows (IE, OE, Security, Shell/User)
AumHa VSOP & Admin;
DTS–L.org

Bob Fliegel wrote:

Just noticed
that this
problem
occurs only
when I try
to send a
page
from
the New York Times
site (of
which I'm a
member),
but I wrote
the Times
about the
prob and
they said
they were unable to
duplicate it.
Odd.

"Bob

Re: Unable to "send page by email"

Fliegel"
wrote:

I
am
suddenly
unable
to send
a
web
page
by
email.
When I
try
doing
so,
I
get
the
following
error
message:

The
current
document
can not
be sent
as
mail.
Would
you
like
to
send
a
shortcut
instead?