

Re: turning off media center via remote

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.mediacenter/2004-09/0531.html>

From: Dana Cline – MVP (dcline_at_scriptpro.com)

Date: 09/13/04

Date: Mon, 13 Sep 2004 10:28:11 -0500

Cool. Not logical but certainly workable. Thanks – I never would have thought of this!

Dana Cline – MVP

"Todd Finders" <ToddFinders@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:43AF2C35-E5FC-4A35-8B3F-AC9EE351BFCE@microsoft.com...

> Dana,

>

> If you navigate back to the Media Center startup screen, you can exit by > pushing the "right" button until the "X" is highlighted in the upper right > corner and then push select.

>

> Todd Finders

>

> "Dana Cline – MVP" wrote:

>

>> OK, got the MCE box hooked up to the big TV in the basement. Ran into an >> interesting problem...

>>

>> How do you exit the MCE software from the remote?

>>

>> I can start MCE by pressing the green button on the remote. Once its >> running, I can do anything I need on the TV. However, when I go to bed at >> night, I want to turn off the Media Center program.

>>

>> The MCE machine shares a monitor with my son's PC. I'd rather not have to >> switch his monitor on and switch to that box just to exit Media Center.

If I

>> leave it up but just turn off the TV, it still keeps buffering the signal

>> (hitting the hard disk) and the sound continues.

>>

>> I tried the "power off" button on the remote, which puts the system into

>> Standby. I'd rather not have the system in standby, just exit the Media microsoft.public.windows.mediacenter: Re: turning off media center via remote > > Center software instead. Can this be done from the remote?

> >

> > Dana Cline – MVP

> >

> >

> >