

Re: Security Warning when chossing My Music

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.mediacenter/2005-02/1390.html>

From: Todd Bowra [MSFT] (toddbow_at_online.microsoft.com)

Date: 02/07/05

Date: Mon, 7 Feb 2005 10:18:00 -0800

Do you have MusicMatch installed on your PC? (the source of PSU's problem)

One possibility is that McAfee reconfigured your Internet Explorer settings and then didn't return them to the defaults when you uninstalled it.

--

This posting is provided "AS IS" with no warranties, and confers no rights.
"TommyC" <TommyC@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:2B248F01-8EBE-4CDE-B719-97196BB63C05@microsoft.com...
> Well, I have no idea, nor can I think of a way to find out. I haven't > installed anything that I know of which has anything to do with My Music.
>
> For me, I'm almost certain it happened when I had a moment of weakness and > activated the "Privacy Service" functionality in McAfee Internet Security > Suite which came bundled on my Dell just before xmas. Right after that the > problem started on both the console and the extender. The console I could fix
> by tweaking the security setting in IE, but I don't know how to do the same > tweak for the account the extender uses. Do you know how to do this?
>
> BTW, The McAfee sludge has since been completely uninstalled. This did NOT > repair the problem.
>
> "Todd Bowra [MSFT]" wrote:
>
> > There's another thread bouncing around this newsgroup somewhere on this > > topic. In your particular case, what website is it trying to go to? More > > than likely what's happening is a third-party application is attempting to > > phone home when you're going to my music (Media Center itself doesn't visit > > any websites when you browse My Music). This attempt in turn triggers a > > warning because the website is not in the trusted sites list.
> >
> > --
> > This posting is provided "AS IS" with no warranties, and confers no rights.
> >
> >
> > "Bob McNeil" <Bob McNeil@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message > > news:E7D16109-3D4D-4E00-936F-5F1A8228C068@microsoft.com...
> > > I am having exactly the same problem with my linksys media center > > extender.
> > > I have to do the quick button dance to not have the security warning

microsoft.public.windows.mediacenter: Re: Security Warning when chossing My Music

```
crash
> > my > > > extender. I have added the listed websites to my Trusted Sites and the > > same
> > > think happens. Have installed the recent update and same problem.
They > > must > > > know about this. Linksys does not acknowledge the problem.
> > >
> > > "Brian G" wrote:
> > >
> > > > I have this exact problem. I have cured it in the pc, but cannot in
the > > > > Linksys extender. I do the same DOWN then OK trick. Surely there has to > > > > be a > > > > fix for this. Please help!!
> > > >
> > > > "TommyC" wrote:
> > > >
> > > > > I ran into this too, after installing some POS from McAfee; I fixed > > > > it for > > > > > the console session by going to
> > > > >
> > > > > Internet Explorer | Tools | Options | Security
> > > > >
> > > > > and choose the Trusted Sites zone.
> > > > >
> > > > > Then click the Custom Level button in the "Security level for this > > > > > zone"
> > > > > > area, navigate to near the bottom where it says "Web sites in less > > > > > > privileged > > > > > > web content zone can navigate into this zone" and choose Enable.
> > > > > >
> > > > > > This Fixes it only for the CONSOLE Media Center. It still happens on
> > > > the > > > > > > Linksys Extender session; it has its own limited user account whose > > > > > > setting > > > > > > > got changed by McAfee too, and I haven't figured out how to set it > > > > > > back,
> > > > > > > yet. I can work around the problem by QUICKLY pressing the DOWN
nav
> > > > > > button
> > > > > > > when the dialog pops up and then pressing OK on the Linksys remote. If > > > > > > anyone > > > > > > > knows how to change the Internet Security settings for the Extender's
> > > > > > user
> > > > > > > > account, please let me know!
> > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > TommyC
> > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > "Jim B." wrote:
> > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > > > djg,
> > > > > > > > > > I am getting the same error. I posed this same ? a littlewhile
```

microsoft.public.windows.mediacenter: Re: Security Warning when chossing My Music

ago
> > and it > > > > > also went unanswered. I have tried everything from adding it to My > > Trusted
> > > > > sites which you would think it would ignore it since it is trusted
> > however > > > > > that has not been the case and I have not been able to track down
> > the issue.
> > > > > I beleive it is a problem with SP2.
> > > > >
> > > > > "djg" wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > > I am using the linksys media center extender. Everything is > > working fine
> > > > > (TV, pictures, etc.) except My Music.
> > > > > >
> > > > > > When choosing My Music I receive a pop-up box with a Security > > Warning that > > > > > > disconnects the media extender which then reboots. The pop-up > > says:
> > > > > >
> > > > > > "The web page is trying to access a trusted site. Do you want to > > continue?"
> > > > > >
> > > > > > The error log states:
> > > > > >
> > > > > >
> >
> >
> >