I am getting the same thing constantly, I have tried running mcerepair and reinstalling the .net framework, I have even went back to a clean install, but it seems like one of the MS patches causes this error because as soon as they are applied it started for me again. Now if there wasnt 100 patches I would try to figure out which one caused this. If anyone gets this figured out please post it here I fear I will have soon toss this laptop out my window.

OK – but please open your window first :-)
