

Administrator rights...

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.active\_directory/2004-11/1431.html

---

From: Zul (m1ist\_at\_istar.com.my)

Date: 11/23/04

Date: Tue, 23 Nov 2004 14:30:31 +0800

Hi,

A few months ago we have moved to Active Directory, and it help us a lot in terms of management but we are having some issues in running some third party software that can't run when the user is just a domain user but when we give them administrator rights, it works.

We don't want to give them administrator rights but how do we allow that third party software to run for that domain user ?

Thank you.

Regards,
Zul