

Re: 2003, Terminal services, GPO, security filtering

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.active_directory/2004-11/1811.html

From: Jimmy Andersson [MVP] (jimmy_NO_SPAM__at_mvps.org)

Date: 11/29/04

Date: Mon, 29 Nov 2004 16:24:04 +0100

Do the group have both Read and Apply?

Regards,
/Jimmy

--

Jimmy Andersson, Q Advice AB
Microsoft MVP - Directory Services
----- www.qadvice.com -----

"JanGS" <jangs@locosoft.nl> wrote in message news:107a3e76.0411290546.43910380@posting.google.com...
>I have 2 servers, a Domain Controller (DC) and a Terminal Server (TS).
> I created an OU on the DC in which I placed the TS computer. I created > an GPO and linked it to this OU. When in "security filtering" of this > GPO the "authenticated users" or the default group "users" are entered > the policy is applied for all users. However, if I create a group with > only some users in it and add only this group to the security > filtering, the policy is not applied ...