

Re: Domain password expiration reset

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.active_directory/2005-01/0747.html

From: GMartin (gmartin_at_gmartin.org)

Date: 01/12/05

Date: Wed, 12 Jan 2005 12:29:42 -0500

onires wrote:

> My company is currently migrating to AD from NT so I'm relatively new to > Active Directory. My question is, how do you reset the password expiration > time for the domain? Right now we have disabled the expiration timeframe > within password policies and are planning to keep it that way for a few days > so that the end users will login to the domain and have their password > expiration reset to disable. Then we will go back in and reset the > expiration back to the original 90 days. We are hoping that this will reset > all users pwd expirations for a fresh 90 days. It seems logical, but there > has to be an easier way. We are making sure that it is being replicated > throughout the domain. Any help would be greatly appreciated! Thanks!

This is done via group policy. You'll want to do some research, but if you look at the properties of the root domain object in Active Directory Users and Computers, you'll find the group policy tab.

\\Greg