

User-managed universal groups

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.active_directory/2005-04/msg01153

- From: Stephanie <Stephanie@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 13 Apr 2005 10:19:03 -0700
-

We currently have some existing universal groups that users maintain by adding/removing employees. As security administrators, we're pondering the idea of creating a new policy prohibiting user-managed universal security groups because of potential security risks. Does anyone have any pros or cons about this subject?

.

- Prev by Date: Re: trying to uninstall AD from a 2003 Machine
- Next by Date: Re: trying to connect to new domain
- Previous by thread: User profiles do not copy over using ADMT when migrating
- Next by thread: XP pro security event log not logging
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread