

Re: Restore ADAM Instance

---

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Windows/microsoft.public.windows.server.active\_directory/2005-10/msg00401

---

- From: "Doug" <kolpekdb@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: 11 Oct 2005 07:33:27 -0700
-

Yep, exactly it. Although I just found out that if we create the users using ADSI edit the backup/restore works just as expected and as you have found. However, if we create the users using our LDAP application the users are not restored. Well, they are restored for a brief moment but then it seems replication then wins the collision battle and removes the restored user.

Close to having a breakdown now....

.

---

• References:

- ◆ Restore ADAM Instance
    - ◇ From: Doug
  - ◆ Re: Restore ADAM Instance
    - ◇ From: Al Mulnick
  - ◆ Re: Restore ADAM Instance
    - ◇ From: Al Mulnick
  - ◆ Re: Restore ADAM Instance
    - ◇ From: Doug
  - ◆ Re: Restore ADAM Instance
    - ◇ From: Doug
  - ◆ Re: Restore ADAM Instance
    - ◇ From: Doug
- Prev by Date: Best practice question
  - Next by Date: Re: dsget limitations
  - Previous by thread: Re: Restore ADAM Instance
  - Next by thread: Re: Restore ADAM Instance
  - Index(es):
    - ◆ Date
    - ◆ Thread